Western Edges Lady Argos 79-73

Great Falls, Mont. – Although the Lady Argos made 41.7 percent of their shots, it was not enough to match the University of Montana Western's 50.8 percent, falling 73-79. Great Falls trailed at half, 49-36 as the Lady Bulldogs connected on 20 of their 33 attempts (60.6 percent).

The Argos were led by junior Kezia Ford who had her second double-double in as many nights. Ford had a team-high in both points and rebounds with 21 and 10, respectively. Freshman Chelsea Adams stepped up to add 20 points, making 8-of-14 from the field and one free-throw. Adams also dished out four assists. Fellow freshman Sara Sciascia had 11 points.

Great Falls was out-rebounded by 12 but forced 24 turnovers on the night. Both team combined to shoot only 23 free throws throughout the game.

The Lady Argos will be back in action on Thursday night as they take on the Carroll College Saints. Game time is set for 6 pm in Helena.
